Local

Man sued for non-payment of lease and neglecting residence

By KIMBERLY B. ESMORES

REPORTER

A couple has filed a lawsuit in Superior Court against a local businessman who allegedly breached his lease agreement for failing to make payments,

PUA applications due before March 27, 2023

The CNMI Department of Labor would like to notify the public that both Initial Applications and Weekly Certification Forms for the Pandemic Unemployment Assistance Program will no longer be accepted by the Department effective March 27, 2023.

Additionally, the department would like to clarify the following:

■ Initial Applications and Weekly Certification Forms previously submitted to the department that are still un-and leaving the residence in a state of disrepair after the lease was terminated.

Former Supreme Court chief justice Jose Dela Cruz and his wife, Rita Dela Cruz, are suing Gabriel F. Boyer, a businessman on Saipan, al-processed do not need to be resubmitted, unless requested by your respective adjudicator.

■ Supporting documents for existing claims will still be accepted beyond March 27, 2023.

■ Although the PUA Program's Period of Performance has been extended by the U.S. Department of Labor - ETA to June 30, 2024, the Benefits Period remains the same and is as follows:

■ PUA Phase 1 (Feb. 2, 2020 – Dec. 26, 2020)

■ PUA Phase 2 (Dec. 27, 2020 - March 13, 2021)

■ PUA Phase 3 (March 14, 2021 – Oct. 4, 2021)

leging breach of contract and unjust enrichment.

According to the lawsuit, Boyer is accused of not paying rent pursuant to a lease agreement, and for surrendering the residence in a state of disrepair.

The couple, through attorney Robert T. Torres, is asking the court to issue an order awarding them damages in the amount of $58,958.11 for unpaid rent, cost of repair of the premises, and cost to replace missing office furniture.

The residence in dispute is the Rita Building in Garapan.

The suit states that on Sept. 16, 2009, Boyer and the Dela Cruzes executed a lease of improved real property for the premises, with a lease term of 35 years commencing on Oct. 1, 2008, and ending on Sept. 30, 2044, at a rate of $3,000 per month with incremental increases of 10% for each five-year period following the initial five years of the lease.

The plaintiffs allege that Boyer failed to pay any rent for the months of December 2020 through April 2021, totaling $18,150.

A clause within the lease agreement states that the plaintiffs can unilaterally terminate the lease upon non-payment of rental when due and within 15 days of a notice of default and failure to cure, or within 30 days of a notice of default for breach or default.

Boyer was served with a notice of default of lease agreement on Jan. 25, 2021.

Subsequently, on March 23, 2021, the plaintiffs issued a notice of termination of lease agreement that was recorded in the Commonwealth Recorder on April 19, 2021.

Boyer surrendered the premises in April 2021.

Corrections doubles down on austerity measures

By KIMBERLY B. ESMORES
kimberly_esmores@saipantribune.com
REPORTER

The new acting Department of Corrections commissioner is doubling down on austerity measures at the department in hopes of saving the government over $40,000 each month.

With the department reportedly overspending its budget by over $1.6 million last fiscal year, acting Department of Corrections commissioner Anthony Torres aims to implement strict cost-cutting measures to save money for the government while ensuring his staff don't lose their jobs.

"There's challenges and concerns, but I'm well aware and I'm doing my best to address them. I've done some things that were probably unpopular, but I needed to do them to address our budget issues. I don't want to have to let people go. I want people to keep their jobs. I'm thinking of my staff as well as ensuring their safety as well as the safety of our inmates," he said.

DOC currently has over 200 personnel and most of these officers were accumulating over 100 hours in overtime by working 12- to 16-hour shifts under the previous leadership. Torres said he hopes to address this by launching another corrections academy as well as buckling down on overtime hours.

"As you can see, we are in dire need of an academy to get started.

I know with the budget and cost-cutting measures, [it'll be hard]. In my first few weeks at DOC, I took it into my own hands and I've restricted overtime to shift operations only. This means sergeants and above are required to get approval from me on overtime. Even then, I will only grant it if it's absolutely necessary," he said.

"With the overtime situation, I've tasked a scheduling committee to devise a plan to decrease the overtime for our line officers. That's coming soon. We're looking at over 38 hours in overtime for each officer dropping down to six to eight hours with the limited staff we have now," Torres added.

On top of cutting back on overtime, the acting commissioner has also grounded most of DOC's vehicles and is lifting non-contact visitation.

"I've grounded 80% of our vehicles. With programming as well, this week I'm going to start lifting visitation for non-contact. It took me time to get there because there were security concerns I wanted to address. The first two days of walking the facility there were a lot of concerns so I did everything in my power to get a team together to address those issues," he said.

Overall, with the cost-cutting measures he will implement, Torres hopes to save the government over $40,000 each month.

"I'm getting really creative and thinking outside the box to save our government some money. With the cost-cutting measures we are putting in place, we're looking at saving our government over $40,000 a month in expenditures," he said.

House resolution honors Kaipat's contributions to the CNMI

By FERDIE DE LA TORRE
ferdie_delatorre@saipantribune.com
REPORTER

The House of Representatives presented Thursday a commemorative resolution to the family of the late former representative Jacinta "Cinta" Matagolai Kaipat to honor and commend her for her "relentless dedication and selfless contributions to the CNMI."

Commemorative Resolution 23-1 also extends the Legislature's condolences to Kaipat's bereaved family on her untimely passing.

Kaipat passed away on Feb. 22, 2023, reportedly due to cardiac arrest. She was 61.

Rep. Roy A. Ada (R-Saipan), who introduced the commemorative resolution, said during the presentation in the House chamber that Kaipat was loved by many people in the Marianas and in the region.

Ada described her as a strong advocate for indigenous rights and for preservation of lands and environmental protection.

Among Kaipat's distinguished accomplishments include being the first Refaluwash woman to become a lawyer in 1997, becoming a member of the House of Representatives representing Precinct 1, and as a founder of the environmental Pagan Watch, which largely campaigned against a military plan to use the island of Pagan as a training ground.

"We would like to present the family with this commemorative resolution for all her dedication to the CNMI," Ada said.

Ada's family and relatives were present during the presentation.

Kaipat's brother, Augustin "Gus" Kaipat, said they are happy that House members put some time into adopting the commemorative resolution.

"It means a lot to us," Augustin Kaipat said.

He said that, for their family, Jacinta Kaipat is not gone and that if she's here he knows she would continue to work for the people and to continue to fight for the CNMI's natural resources.

"Because if you care about land, it means you care for the people," he said.

The commemorative resolution states that, as a young girl, Kaipat took a leap of faith when she traveled thousands of miles across the globe to Evanston, Illinois, where she would complete high school at Evanston Township High School in 1979.

Kaipat went to DePaul University where she obtained her bachelor's degree in Liberal Arts with an emphasis in law, with the highest honors.

She then attended the University of Minnesota Law School in Minneapolis, Minnesota, where she obtained her juris doctorate in 1997.

In 1995, in the midst of pursuing her juris doctorate, she served as a member of the legal team of the 3rd CNMI Constitutional Convention to oversee the legal sufficiency of constitutional amendments offered by the delegates.

From 1995-1998, she co-produced and co-directed the film Lieweila: Navigators' Children, a critically-ac-

From 1999 to 2006, Kaipat served as an administrative hearing officer for the CNMI Department of Labor.

On Nov. 5, 2005, she was elected to the House of Representatives 15th Legislature, as one of the representatives of Precinct 1.

From February 2008 to February 2011, she was appointed to serve as deputy Labor secretary, where she led the department's implementation of Public Law 15-108.

From September 2011 to December 2015, she served as an assistant attorney general for the Office of the Attorney General, where she served in both the Criminal and Civil divisions.

From July 2008 to March 2019, Kaipat served as a member of the Marianas Visitors Authority board. She also previously served as a member of the Northern Marianas Trades Institute board of directors in 2008, the Pagan Mining Task Force in 2006, and board of directors for Karidat in 2004, the CNMI Historic Preservation review board in 2000, and the CNMI Board of Parole in 2000.

In 1999, she worked with the residents of Tanapag village and Green Peace to force the United States and CNMI governments to address the cleanup of Tanapag's polychlorinated biphenyl contamination.

In 2002, she co-founded Pagan Watch, an organization that sought to protect the land, waters, and communities of the NMI from exploitation, among other things.

In 2006, she founded Beautify CNMI!, a coalition of government, private sector, and community volunteers that worked together on environmental initiatives to make the CNMI a better place to live and visit.

In 2008, Kaipat was a member of the Friends of the Marianas Trench Monument, which advocated for the preservation of the waters surrounding the northern islands of Asuncion, Maug, and Farallon de Pajaros for environmental protection.

Probable cause found to try two accused of burglary

By KIMBERLY B. ESMORES
kimberly_esmores@saipantribune.com
REPORTER

The Superior Court has found probable cause to try two persons accused of burglarizing the residence of former governor Pedro P. Tenorio.

Following a preliminary hearing last Thursday, Superior Court Associate Judge Wesley Bogdan found probable cause to try Mark S. Benavente and Josephine J. Pangelinan of burglarizing the residence of former governor Pedro P. Tenorio in January.

Following the hearing, both defendants were remanded back to Department of Corrections custody and were ordered to return to court on March 13, for an arraignment.

According to court documents, the caretakers of the Tenorio residence called the Department of Public Safety on Jan. 24, reporting an alleged break-in.

At the scene, officers were escorted to the westernmost side of the residence where they saw a broken window on the second floor.

In an interview with Robert Manalo, the grounds maintenance man, he told police that he noticed a green minivan driving by the residence a couple of times several days before the break-in. He said he knew the car belonged to Benavente.

About two days before the break-in, Manalo said he noticed that the minivan was parked along the dirt road just west of the residence. Then the break-in happened.

About two weeks later, on Feb. 8, while routinely driving around, DPS officers conducted a traffic stop on a green minivan in San Vicente. The car was later impounded and searched.

On Feb. 21, police visited Benavente and Pangelinan's residence in Chalan Kanoa.

When Pangelinan opened the door, police said they immediately noticed brand-name purses just hanging on the wall.

The next day, police acquired a search warrant for Benavente and Pangelinan's apartment and immediately executed it.

While executing the search warrant, police patted down Benavente who allegedly was found in possession of a crystal-like substance, which later yielded positive for methamphetamine.

During the search, police managed to find multiple items that were reported missing after the burglary.

Pangelinan later admitted to being part of the burglary and also told police that Benavente broke into the house by climbing up the west wall of the house.

It was learned that Benavente allegedly invited others to steal from the Tenorio residence after they had taken what they wanted. Tenorio passed away in May 21, 2018.

its war on Ukraine in February 2022, with sanctions limiting the sale of Moscow's oil and natural gas in Western markets.

Aramco also hopes to increase its production to take advantage of market demand, raising the billions needed to pay for Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman's plans to develop futuristic cityscapes to pivot Saudi Arabia away from oil.

However, those plans come despite growing international concerns over the burning of fossil fuels accelerating climate change.

"Given that we anticipate oil and gas will remain essential for the foreseeable future, the risks of underinvestment in our industry are real—including contributing to higher energy prices," Saudi Aramco CEO and President Amin H. Nasser said in a statement.

Profits rose 46.5% when compared to the company's 2021 results of $110 billion. It earned $49 billion in 2020 when the world faced the worst of the coronavirus pandemic lockdown, travel disruptions and oil prices briefly going negative.

Aramco put its crude production at around 11.5 million barrels a day in 2022 and said it hoped to reach 13 million barrels a day by 2027.

To boost that production, it plans to spend as much as $55 billion this year on capital projects.

Aramco also declared a dividend of $19.5 billion for the fourth quarter of 2022, to be paid in the first quarter of this year.

Benchmark Brent crude oil now trades around $82 a barrel, though prices had reached over $120 a barrel back in June. Aramco, whose fortunes hinge on global energy prices, announced a record $42.4 billion profit in the third quarter of 2022 off the back of that price spike.

Those high prices have further strained ties between the kingdom and the United States, traditionally a security guarantor among the Gulf Arab states amid tensions with Iran. Before the midterm elections in November, the kingdom said the Biden administration sought to delay a decision by OPEC and allies including Russia to cut production that could have kept gasoline prices lower for voters—making public the typically behind-the-scenes negotiations common in the region.

"This is the second groundbreaking event that I've attended just within the last two weeks and I look forward to more so that we can get many of these large projects, and our Commonwealth economy, moving forward," he said.

Aside from congratulating Atkins Kroll for the groundbreaking of their state-of-the-art facility, Palacios also thanked the company for always being at the forefront in the islands' development since opening shop in 1968.

"Atkins Kroll has been with our community for more than 55 years and we thank them for their continued support and partnership for all those years, not just for their service in the wholesale and automotive business, but also for their philanthropic contributions to our islands."

The groundbreaking also holds promise that bright things are indeed ahead for the CNMI, he added. "Not only will this project benefit the future of the CNMI through the enhanced revitalization of this area, but it will also provide jobs during the construction phase and after its completion, supporting the automotive needs and the economic growth of our community, which is an important part of our daily lives."

Alex Hammett, Inchcape managing director for South Asia and Pacific, said the new facility will herald a new chapter in the company's history in the CNMI.

"Toyota has been part of the NMI for more than five decades, and now it's Lexus's turn. The new Lexus dealership will be the first of its kind on Saipan, and it is a physical manifestation of our commitment to grow our business and further invest in the NMI. This means that we will have a beautiful new dealership to showcase the latest Lexus models and be able to expand our Lexus-certified services to better serve our customers," said Hammett, who spent his formative years on Saipan and used to work as a clubmate at Pacific Islands Club Saipan.

He said the new Toyota Lexus dealership has been in the works for nearly three years.

He thanked the island community for patronizing them in the last five decades. "As we gather together to bless this land, the project, and the future success of the new Toyota Lexus dealership, we also take this time to thank our community for their support for the past 55 years! It has been our honor to serve you, and we are taking even bolder steps to plant deeper roots in the Marianas."

Hammet agrees that the new dealership will provide more employment opportunities in the CNMI. "[This] comes with the ability to provide more career opportunities from highly trained technical roles in our service center to senior management level positions. ...As we turn the soil today, let's look positively at the future and continue to work together to build up the CNMI for generations to come."

BILL

Workers (CW-1)—to exit the CNMI while the renewal of their work visa is being processed.

The bill was referred to the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Natural Resources and Committee on the Judiciary.

The touchback provision requires CNMI employers to send CW-1 visa holders back to their home country at least every three years.

Sablan said in his his e-kilili newsletter over the weekend that this was problematic during the COVID-19 pandemic, when air flights were interrupted and costly and home country ingress (entry) requirements made it difficult for workers to return. U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services did delay the touchback requirement for one year for some workers. The USCIS announcement in October 2022 said it would only count consecutive CW petitions with start dates on or after June 18, 2020, against the three-year touchback requirement. This meant that hundreds of CW-1 workers did not have to leave the CNMI until the end of their 2024 validity period.

The touchback rule was part of a broad agreement among the Marianas business community, the Commonwealth government, and a bipartisan, bicameral congressional working group that led to then-President Donald Trump signing the U.S. Workforce Act into law. Sablan said the law was intended to decrease reliance on foreign workers and encourage investment in the Marianas' own local workforce.

Sablan noted that, from 2020 to 2021, according to the report required by the U.S. Workforce Act, the number of U.S. workers employed in the Marianas held steady near 13,000. Sablan noted that the pandemic may have been largely the reason for this.

Sablan was referring to then-governor Ralph DLG Torres' CNMI ratio report for fiscal year 2022 dated Oct. 31, 2022 and submitted to Secretary of Homeland Security Alejandro Mayorkas. Torres' report, which was prepared by the CNMI Department of Labor, provided details on the number of U.S. workers and other workers in the CNMI based on income tax filings for Tax Year 2021.

However, based on the recent numbers provided by Gov. Arnold I. Palacios, the number of foreign workers have now fallen to about 8,000 to 6,000.

Santos stated in the notice that, as provided in Article 27 of the lease agreement, DPL will, upon 15 days of written notice, enter into the premises and take possession of all buildings, fixtures, and improvements, and evict Rota Resort LLC without liability of trespass.

The lease agreement was entered into between the former Marianas Public Lands Corp. (now DPL), and the former SNM Corp. (now Rota Resort LLC) on Oct. 28, 1989.

Santos gave Cho 30 days from the receipt of the notice of termination to remit the full payment of $639,879, which the company owes DPL in lease and interest fees from July 1, 2020, to Feb. 28, 2023.

Santos also gave Cho 30 days from receipt of the notice of termination to require Docomo Pacific (CNMI) LLC to remove its antenna, electronic equipment, and all personal property from the resort premises.

The acting DPL secretary said the lessee did not obtain DPL's prior written consent to Docomo's use of the premises, so Docomo's placement of equipment on the resort premises is a breach of the lease agreement.

Santos said it is their understanding that the lessee entered into a sublease agreement with Docomo to occupy a portion of the resort premises.

She pointed out that Article 15(a) of the lease agreement provides that, except with the prior written consent of DPL, lessee shall not sublease or transfer any part of lessee's interest in the premises or permit the premises to be used or occupied by others.

Santos said that DPL inspected the Rota Resort property on Nov. 2, 2022, and found that the premises, including the golf course and hotel buildings, were in disrepair, blocked for access with chains and padlocks, and not open for business as of that date.

Santos said that DPL's follow-up inspection on Feb. 6, 2023, found that the premises had not reopened for business since the previous inspection.

She said DPL did not authorize the closure of the resort.

The acting DPL secretary noted that Rota Resort LLC's failure to use the premises for the purposes required in Article 2 of the lease agreement for a consecutive period of 90 days without securing the written DPL consent is considered abandonment of the premises.

Santos pointed out that Article 26 of the lease agreement provides that lessee is automatically in default if lessee abandons the premises, with no requirement of written notice or opportunity to cure.

However, Boyer allegedly left the premises in complete disarray by stripping off all improvements and repairs from the Rita Building and neglecting to secure all facilities from looting or exposure to natural elements.

"As a result of this neglect, Rita Building was left in a state of disrepair and the structural integrity of the premises has been compromised, resulting in the plaintiffs expending substantial repair costs and expenses in the amount totalling $5,808.11," Torres said.

In addition, after further inspection of the premises, the plaintiffs allegedly discovered that the original office furniture belonging to the plaintiffs had been removed from the premises.

The office furniture has not been located, found, or returned to the plaintiffs and the estimated total cost of replacing the office furniture is $35,000.

Ada visits Kagman High's maritime program

Education Commissioner Dr. Alfred Ada recently made a surprise visit to Kagman High School to observe its maritime studies program, which is being conducted by the Western Pacific Maritime Academy.

During Ada's visit, Ken-shiro Yanai, one of the school's maritime students—known as “midshipmen”—presented his newly-earned Merchant Marine Credential, which is the credential on earns through this program, allowing one to to work as professional mariners on large merchant marine ships.

WPMA, a nonprofit corporation on Saipan and with maritime offices and classrooms located at Northern Marianas Technical Institute in Lower Base, is offering its U.S. Coast Guard-approved Basic Training Personal Survival Techniques, or BT-PST, course to Kagman High School students in a pilot program.

BT-PST is one of five basic training courses that qualify candidates to work on large merchant marine ships similar to those anchored off the beaches of Saipan.

Captain Dave Johansen is teaching the BT-PST course, which is a 14-hour course that teaches students the foundational knowledge and skills on how to survive disaster at sea through both written exam and practical exercises.

Knowledge includes shipboard emergency response, types of shipboard emergencies, principles of survival at sea, understanding survival craft and equipment and techniques for abandoning ship. Practical exercises are conducted to prove skills in donning a life jacket, cold weather immersion suites, treading water, turning their clothing into flotation devices and boarding a life raft.

To date seven maritime students, including Yanai, have received their Merchant Marine Credential, or MMC.

WPMA is running pilot programs to a total of 24 midshipmen both at KHS and Da'ok Academy. By the 2023-2024 school year, WPMA expects to be expanding to all high schools in the CNMI, including Tinian and Rota. The Academy will be offering a full suite of USCG-approved maritime courses and services to the seafaring public.

WPMA's PSS maritime workforce development program steers candidates into high paying jobs in the maritime sector as entry level credentialed professional mariners as deck seamen, engineers or members of the catering department. An entry level seaman in the U.S. Merchant Marine can earn upwards of $5,000 to $7,000 per month through one of a number of maritime unions or military sealift command. In the wake of COVID-19, the maritime sector is experiencing a huge demand for credentialed mariners.

Rota Chamber hosts first general membership meeting

The Rota Chamber of Commerce hosted its first general membership meeting at the Puesto Grill Conference Room on Rota on March 9, 2023, serving as an occasion to introduce the organization to the Rota business community.

The meeting, held from 2:pm to 4pm, introduced the RCC board of directors and information on the different types of membership tiers and committees under its Chamber.

Rota Chamber president Steven McCoy announced that all businesses that sign up as an RCC member will receive a 50% discount on membership dues for the year and those that are startup businesses may avail of a free membership for the first year of their establishment.

The event's guest speaker, Saipan Chamber of Commerce executive director Kimberly Camacho, shared insights on the programs and activities of SCC, with the hope that the information shared will encourage the Rota business community to support the development of the Rota Chamber of Commerce. She said the SCC is dedicated to supporting RCC.

Together with Camacho was SCC board director Alex Sablan, who also shared with the Rota business community the importance of action that needs to be taken in regards to the "touchback" rule that will be taking effect on Sept. 30, 2023, when select foreign workers will be required to exit the CNMI before the renewal of work permits could be processed.

Sablan invited the Rota business community to join the SCC Tourism and Commerce committee meeting today, Monday, where the committee will discuss and share ideas on actions regarding the touchback legislation, CW-1 quota reset legislation, current CW-1 and visa regulations and processes, among other items.

Rota Mayor Aubry Hocog, who was also a special guest, shared infrastructure plans for the municipality, which include plans under the Capital Improvement Program, FEMA/Public Assistance, Local appropriation, and CNMI SCORP.

Other plans shared included the different grant proposals submitted and in progress for the island, current issues, as well as ongoing plans by the former mayor, Efraim Atalig.

Hocog said she is collaborating with Northern Marianas Technical Institute CEO Jodina Attao in developing certification of instructors on Rota so they may gain certified instructors and begin offering certifications for various trades needed on the island.

For more information on the Rota Chamber of Commerce and how to join, contact their board treasurer Jackie Manglona at (670) 285-3559. (Saipan Tribune/PR)

3 Pacific lawmakers meet with scholars' group in Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Delegates Uifa'atali Amata Radewagen (R-AS), Gregorio Kilili C. Sablan (D-MP), and James Moylan (R-GU) along with former delegate Robert Underwood, met Wednesday with Asia Pacific Islander American Scholars to discuss the educational needs for Pacific Islanders throughout the United States and higher education.

"I appreciate the good work and education goals of the APIA Scholars program, this discussion with their leadership team, and the commitment to education of my colleagues, Congressman Sablan and Congressman Moylan," said Radewagen.

"Our Pacific Islander youth can face geographic and economic obstacles to higher education. It's important to continue to build better access, and keep encouraging our young people from the islands or our islander communities here in the U.S. with educational possibilities."

APIA Scholars is a non-profit focused on opportunities and student success rates for Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander students, including partnering with Asian American and NHPI-Serving Institutions and what factors can remove financial barriers and increase success rates in both studies and careers. Biden proposes $537M for US territories, FAS in 2024 budget

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Biden-Harris administration on Friday released the President's Budget for Fiscal Year 2024, which includes $537 million in funding for the U.S. Department of the Interior's Office of Insular Affairs.

The proposal would fund initiatives benefitting Americans in the U.S. territories of American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, Guam, and the U.S. Virgin Islands and support certain programs for the freely associated states: the Federated States of Micronesia, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, and the Republic of Palau.

"President Biden has proposed an important blueprint for our country's future that reflects the importance of science, equity and collaboration in carrying out the Department of the Interior's important missions," said assistant secretary for Insular and International Affairs Carmen G. Cantor. "The 2024 budget request makes critical, targeted investments in the American people and in the territories that will promote greater prosperity and economic growth for decades to come. For the insular areas, the budget will provide for investments in infrastructure, energy resiliency and security, and promote racial justice and equity in underserved communities allowing Interior to fulfill its responsibilities in the Pacific and the Caribbean."

The FY 2024 budget proposal for OIA includes $122 million in current appropriations and $414 million in permanent funding. It also reflects proposed increases from the FY 2023 enacted level of $4 million in Capital Improvement Projects grant funding to support critical infrastructure needs in the Territories, and $900,000 for the Coral Reef Initiative and Natural Resources grant program to address additional conservation needs for all Insular Areas.

For OIA, the FY 2024 budget proposal:

Underscores the importance of Compacts of Free Association

Financial assistance provided under the Compacts of Free Association is scheduled to end after FY 2023 for the FSM and the RMI and after FY 2024 for Palau. The Administration supports renewing the funding of our Compact of Free Association relationships. Continuing decisions established in the FY 2023 budget, the 2024 budget proposal seeks $6.5 billion in economic assistance over 20 years to be provided through a mandatory appropriation at the Department of State, and language calling for continued implementation of the Compacts at the Department of the Interior. Negotiations on the expiring provisions of the Compacts of Free Association continue, underscoring the importance of these bilateral relationships. The Administration intends to submit a legislative proposal to Congress upon completion of these negotiations later this year. The United States remains committed to its long-standing partnerships with the governments and the people of the freely associated states as we work together to promote a free and open Indo-Pacific.

Proposes support for Compact migrants

With mandatory appropriations for Compact Impact (authorized under the 2003 Compacts of Free Association Act) also expiring after FY 2023, the proposed FY 2024 budget discontinues the smaller discretionary supplement to the mandatory funds for Compact Impact. The Administration supports allowing Compact migrants to become eligible for key federal social safety net programs while residing in the United States, as a long-term solution to the financial impacts of Compact migrants on state and territorial governments. The matter requires congressional review and approval.

First Amendment is under siege from all sides

Hostility to the First Amendment is a bipartisan endeavor. Too many elected officials take an oath to uphold the Constitution without having bothered to read the document.

The Orlando Sentinel reported this week that a Florida lawmaker of Republican persuasion has offered a bill to require bloggers to register with the government or face fines. The proposal excludes print journalists but mandates that all others who write about the governor, state officials or lawmakers provide information to the state about whether they are being paid and who is paying them.

The sponsor, state Sen. Jason Brodeur, who represents a district near Orlando, argues the bill is “an electioneering issue, not a free speech issue” and will provide voters with information about who is attempting to influence public policy.

That’s weak tea. It may be news to Brodeur, but electioneering enjoys free speech protections.

“The idea that bloggers criticizing a politician should register with the government is insane,” Newt Gingrich tweeted. He’s correct, of course.

Yet “good government” types, many on the left, have for years demanded that interest groups engaging in political activity register with the government or face legal consequences. The archives are littered with examples of grassroots organizers—and even radio talk show hosts—becoming entangled in byzantine campaign finance laws regulating expenditures and political activism. In 1995, for instance, the U.S. Supreme Court was forced to step in when Ohio officials fined a woman for distributing anonymous leaflets advocating against a proposed school tax hike.

It’s also worth noting that a good many Senate Democrats, including Nevada’s two members of the upper chamber, have embraced a proposal to rewrite the First Amendment to give federal bureaucrats more authority to regulate political speech, potentially even banning certain campaign discourse as an election neared.

Brodeur’s bill is equally offensive, a blatant effort to intimidate potential critics into silence. “It is difficult to imagine a legislative proposal more fundamentally at odds with our nation’s founding spirit than requiring citizens and journalists to register their publications with the government under pain of fines,” a spokesperson for the Foundation for Individual Rights and Expression told businessinsider.com.

On Tuesday, Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis did the right thing. “That’s not anything I’ve ever supported, I don’t support,” he said in reference to the blogger plan, according to The Floridian. “I’ve been very clear on what we are doing.” Brodeur should apologize and then send his ridiculous bill through the shredder.

Governments should compete for residents, not businesses

Amazon.com Inc.’s pause of its plans to expand its second headquarters in Northern Virginia reflects some deep underlying trends—not just for metropolitan Washington, where I live, but for regional development more generally.

First, with the end of the U.S. Federal Reserve’s zero interest rate policy, many developments are being canceled or postponed. Long-term projects are less profitable than they used to be, and capital is harder to come by. As the major technology companies lose market value, their urban and suburban refurbishment plans become less of a priority.

Over the last 15 years, many U.S. cities—Austin, Miami, Nashville and Boise, to name a few—have become far more “business-friendly,” to use a term, and have in fact attracted many new businesses. This process may well be at an end. U.S. regions may be entering a new era in which they simply try to maintain what they have, or manage their decline.

Northern Virginia is a very wealthy and livable area, and for decades it has strived to move beyond its reputation as just a suburb of the nation’s capital. That pretense is likely now over. While the region is highly educated, it isn’t well-suited to being a tech center. The prevailing ethos is federal power, with a healthy dose of suburban retail—not radical innovation.

The cultural norm in Silicon Valley is to share aid and information. Here the cultural norm is to hoard information. The major status markers are those of government and real estate, not the ability to build scalable software. When local tech companies do succeed, often the federal government is their main customer.

In other words, this area is going to stay “as is.”

This stasis is further enforced by the growing difficulty of courting corporations. If Amazon stiffes Northern Virginia, future politicians elsewhere may be less eager to promise tax breaks and infrastructure investments, not to mention spend their reputational capital. Politically speaking, it will be harder for urban and suburban leaders to rise to the top by attracting new major corporate tenants. “Pro-business” local governments may be less common in the years to come.

Another relevant trend is the work-from-home and hybrid models. Why should a major corporation invest in more office space if a lot of that space will be used only part of the time?

It is worth thinking through how remote and hybrid work will affect regional evolution. There have already been “booms” in some relatively small resort areas, such as parts of Maine, Long Island and West Virginia. But there will be a more general impact as well. To the extent corporations give up on clustering their talent in big office buildings, people will spread out where they live. Not everyone will set down stake in the Hamptons or along the Irish coast. Plenty of people will want to live near family or where they were born, or perhaps a few hours away from the main office as part of a hybrid arrangement.

In this new world, it will be much harder for a well-governed region to rise to the top. Even if its leaders succeed in convincing a company to relocate, for instance, there may be fewer workers who do so. Or perhaps there will be the same number of workers but they will come into the office less frequently and live scattered in many directions, sometimes in other states or metropolitan areas.

There is nothing necessarily wrong with this outcome. But the potential parvenu region just won’t feel that exciting, and the level of activity won’t feed upon itself in terms of attracting more retail and cultural amenities.

Conversely, it may be harder for regions to fall into decline, at least once the initial adjustment period passes (midtown New York and Washington are ailing at the moment, due to a loss of office workers). It may be less of a big deal if companies decide to move their headquarters from a particular city, since their departure will result in the loss of fewer jobs.

Overall, there may be less competition to attract corporations. At the same time, political competition for residents may become more intense, because more people will be able to choose where to live regardless of where they work. This competition could lead to improvements in schools and parks.

As far as Northern Virginia is concerned, I’ll miss the effect those Amazon workers might have had on the value of my home. But I feel pretty good about a possible new era of intense political competition for actual residents.

‘Mickey Mouse’ Board of Education meeting

“Oh, boy!” (Mickey Mouse). I had the displeasure of hearing the audio of the last general Board of Education meeting in full—all thirteen minutes of it. “Live every moment as not to regret what you are about to do” (Mickey Mouse).

With all due respect, the two most senior members of the board, Mr. Orsini and Sgt. Maj. Atalig, need to lay their personal ambitions aside and get back to the work of our Board of Education, a job they campaigned for and asked all of us to give them. No doubt everyone will have their own opinions, but mine is simple: These two men embarrass and lower themselves by their egocentric view of the positions they hold—this board is not theirs to sully with political gamesmanship and, for the record, it sounds ridiculous to claim that their right to freedom of speech is impeded by the majority asking them to speak publicly and not behind closed doors. “This is it, guys. When these doors open, we got to make a very first impression” (Mickey Mouse).

After months of obstructionist tactics to delay and otherwise impede the work of the board, they had the audacity to show up 40 minutes late for the day’s general board meeting (with complete disregard for anyone else’s time) then immediately set into motion an orchestrated farce to impose their will on everyone present. If that weren’t enough, Mr. Orsini repeatedly insisted for “the vote” on a motion he put forward despite attempts by other members to hold further discussion. And finally, when the vote was called and he didn’t like the outcome, he and the sergeant major walked out of the meeting with parting words of something to the effect of “this Mickey Mouse” board. Oh...and the vote they couldn’t bear to lose? The two of them wanted to discuss how they should elect officers (a scheduled agenda item for the day) in executive session (in other words in a closed-door session out of the public view), but the majority voted to hold that discussion publicly. I’m no backdoor strategist, but I’d bet the farm they had in mind to extort (for God knows what) themselves into a better bargaining position for the chairmanship—all the more reason for the public to hear what they have to say. “I can’t help you with revenge” (Mickey Mouse).

I wrote in an article a couple weeks ago about certain types of people who get bestowed a title or get into positions of authority and suddenly can’t see past themselves and forget why they have a title in the first place—adding further, “the disaster that comes with a big head (or an ego) and a title.” It saddens me to think that Mr. Orsini and Sgt. Maj. Atalig, by most accounts that I have heard gentlemen of good repute in the community, would allow themselves to fall victim to this narcissistic phenomenon as well. There really is no other explanation for their ongoing dereliction of duty to the board and to CNMI’s student population. “All you need is a little bit of magic” (Mickey Mouse).

Fortunately, it seems that existing regulations allow for the Commissioner of Education to be able to carry out the functions of the board absent a quorum, so the work of our educational institution does not have to cease due to these grown men’s tantrums. Still, they effectively have taken away a critical component of our internal controls or rather our balance of power with the Commissioner of Education to safeguard the system. May Alfred be granted the wisdom to wield his extended authority with due diligence and always with the best interests of our students in mind. “Every child is born a genius” (Mickey Mouse).

Far be it for me to make suggestions as to how members need to conduct themselves, but I will say (though I am disappointed with the actions of these two men) I hope or rather expect both of them to get back to the table and respect the rules of the game they so willingly put themselves into. “Thanks! That means a lot” (Mickey Mouse).

Apparently, some members of our House of Representatives see a problem as well. I saw a clip just today of H.B. 23-20 (To Amend the Quorum and Removal of Members for the State Board of Education) with a request for first and final reading being introduced. “That sure is swell” (Mickey Mouse).

Despite the official number required for quorum, there are five voting members of the Board of Education—1, 2, 3, 4, 5. “Arithmetic is being able to count up to 20 without taking off your shoes” (Mickey Mouse).

Nobody said it would be easy, but please get back to the table and work through your problems like the honorable, elected members of the board that you are... “Happiness is not about having or not having problems. Everyone has problems, but not everyone is happy” (Mickey Mouse).

Private texts confirm: Fox isn’t a news networkBy JAKE WHITNEY
PROGRESSIVE PERSPECTIVES

The newly released private messages of Fox News stars Tucker Carlson, Sean Hannity and Laura Ingraham, Fox Chairman Rupert Murdoch, and others prove what many on the left have argued for years: that Fox is an entertainment network, not a news network.

The text messages and depositions, revealed in a Feb. 16 legal filing, unequivocally show that the network lied to its viewers for better ratings. What’s more, the gulf between what Fox stars said privately and what they broadcast out adds to the growing evidence that the on-air personas of many right-wing stars are largely an act.

The messages were made public in a court filing by Dominion Voting Systems, which is suing Fox for $1.6 billion in a defamation suit. Dominion claims that Fox committed libel by airing segments centered around the company rigging the election for President Joe Biden. The filings expose two key things: that Fox executives knew Donald Trump’s stolen election claims were false while the network continued to push those claims; and they knew that reporting the truth would hurt ratings.

In May 2021, I wrote an article that argued that many influential conservative pundits did not actually believe much of what they said. My evidence was based on what these pundits were forced to admit while under oath. Alex Jones, for example, admitted during a custody battle that he was merely a “performance artist,” so his on-air comments could not be used against him. Tucker Carlson and Sidney Powell, a Trump lawyer, argued in court that “no reasonable person” should believe what they said—that their statements should not be taken as factual. The messages in the Dominion filing support this position.

Carlson’s texts are particularly revealing. According to the filing, two days after the 2020 presidential election, Carlson grew furious that Fox’s decision desk was the first to call Arizona for Biden. He texted his producer: “We worked really hard to build what we have. Those f--- are destroying our credibility.” A legitimate news channel, of course, would be more concerned with providing important facts to its viewers than withholding truthful information for fear of lower ratings.

The Ides of MarchLITERARY NOOK

By JOEY CONNOLLY

Special to the Saipan Tribune

Joey aka Pepe Batbon Connolly is a retired educator who taught in the CNMI, NOLA, and LVNV. He is a sonnet practitioner who enjoys stargazing.

The Ides of March marks the 15th day of March in the Roman calendar. A soothsayer told Julius Caesar one month before March 15 that he would be in danger in the next 30 days. Exactly 30 days later in Rome on March 15, 44 B.C., Emperor Julius Caesar was assassinated, the event recorded by the Roman poet Terence.

William Shakespeare used the line “beware the ides of March” in 1601 in his tragic play, Julius Caesar. The phrase has since entered the English language as a superstitious warning of imminent danger. What follows is the last half of my sonnet “Caveat Emptor - Ignoring the Ides of March” published a few years ago here in the Saipan Tribune. A new poem for the same date follows it.

“Pay no heed to gossips in a town without pity
Wash hands frequently don’t panic about the virus
Physician heal thyself the ancient Greek doctor said
Look for ethical leaders and scientific truth to inspire us
Apply whatever common sense is already in your head
Careful what you wish for you might someday get it
Who the hell said it? You might as well just forget it.”

The Ides of March? Fuhgeddaboutit

Beware the ides of March? Uh, fuhgeddaboutit you might best beware of the big blabbermouth white collar criminals with white shirts full of starch those who say “truth isn’t truth” north is not south folks who dye their hair green on the 17th of March many implausible political conspiracy theories and those who do not want you to ever doubt it

Be wary of eating any food while watching TV and watching all those ads about personal body problems selling underwear medicine and deodorant you don’t ever plan on trying them and have no plans on buying them but those ads will surely give you indigestion or make you sick to your stomach for free

The problems plagues and pricey cost of any superstition may substantially deteriorate a healthy mental condition get off the couch take a walk go swimming at the beach healthy living and thinking is well within your reach.

Regarding Trump’s voter fraud claims, messages revealed in the filing show that Tucker “agreed ‘that there wasn’t enough fraud to change the outcome.’” He also deemed Trump attorney Powell, who claimed on Fox that Dominion machines switched votes from Trump to Biden, a “crazy person” who was “dangerous as hell.”

There are plenty of other examples of this hypocrisy in the Dominion filing. Murdoch himself called the election fraud claims “really crazy stuff.” Ingraham, writing about Powell and Rudy Giuliani, who also pushed the claims, said “Sidney is a complete nut. No one will work with her. Ditto with Rudy.”

Unfortunately, we live in an age when news networks and news shows are expected to be profitable. So it’s reasonable that employees of those networks would be concerned about ratings. But when concerns about ratings and profitability trump a dedication to reporting the truth, then it should no longer be considered a news network.

Guam Doppler weather radar shows isolated showers within the Marianas Waters. However, satellite shows the showers becoming scattered near Saipan as the radar reaches it's farthest limits. The buoys reveal combined seas of 3 to 5 feet, composed mainly of east to east-northeast swell with a small north swell and wind waves added in.

Camacho extends aid to CNMI Office of Youth Affairs

The Saipan Mayor's office recently expanded its routine roadside maintenance efforts to include the public lands surrounding the Chalan Kanoa Youth Center as part of assistance to the CNMI Youth Affairs Office.

In a notice to the public last Friday, it said that Saipan Mayor Ramon "RB" Camacho's office has received inquiries about beautification activities in the village of Chalan Kanoa and he made the decision to include the public lands surrounding the Chalan Kanoa Youth Center in the SMO's routine roadside maintenance efforts and maintain accessibility to the center, as part of efforts to assist special assistant Delbert T. Pua and the CNMI Youth Affairs Office.

"To allow overgrowing vegetation in these areas will adversely affect the community's access to the facility and consequently impact the Youth Affairs programs aimed to provide various learning opportunities for our youth," the news release said.

It stated that Camacho stands firm in his commitment to people and will continue to assist partnering agencies that provide programs to benefit the community.

Pua echoed Camacho's stance, saying, "Forging partnerships with other organizations who have the resources to assist us in anyway is paramount, especially in these tough economic times, and we sincerely appreciate the efforts of the honorable mayor and his hardworking team."

For any questions, concerns, or inquiries, contact the Saipan Mayor's office at (670) 234-6208. Office hours are Monday to Friday, 7:30am to 4:30pm. (Saipan Tribune/PR)

In celebration of International Women's Day, members of the CNMI Woman's Association and the Office of the Governor's Woman's Affairs Office gathered together with members of the community to wave and show their support of women last Wednesday at the Garapan Fishing Base in Kristo Rai.

"It was truly an inspiring movement to see all women, from all walks of life, diversity, and stories come together and celebrate International Women's Day," said Valentina Rivera, CNMI Women's Association's project director. "I hope it won't just take a day to continue our progress from all issues that we are facing. As Beyonce once said, 'Who runs the world? Girls!'", and from that, I second it!"

When asked to comment what International Women's Day means to her, Edith Solayao said she sees the day as one of hope and encouragement to all women.

Nancy Zhang said she can describe the day as one that is fun and inspiring.

Shirley Ogomoru, special advisor to the Office of the Governor's Women's Affairs Office, who also joined the waving, said in encouragement to women "Let's take it one day at a time and continue to inspire others!"

COMMONWEALTH OF THE NORTHERN MARIANA ISLANDS NORTHERN MARIANAS HOUSING CORPORATION

NOTICE OF FUNDING AVAILABILITY OF COMMUNITY PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT FUNDS FOR PROGRAM YEAR 2023

THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS PAID FOR BY NMHC WITH CPD FUNDS.

The Government of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, through the Northern Marianas Housing Corporation (NMHC) is announcing the availability of an estimated $1,576,020.00 in Community Planning and Development (CPD) funds available from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. NMHC anticipates receiving an estimated amount of $980,125.00 in Community Development Block Grants (CDBG); $515,489.00 in Home Investment Partnerships (HOME); and, $80,406.00 in Emergency Solutions Grant (ESG) funds for Program Year (PY) 2023.

The CDBG funds, authorized under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, may be used for a wide range of community development activities to revitalize neighborhoods, provide affordable housing, expand economic opportunities, and improve community facilities and services. However, use of these funds must meet at least one of the national objectives which include: 1) to benefit low and moderate-income families; 2) to eliminate slum or blight conditions; or 3) to meet other urgent community development needs.

The CDBG program requires a grant recipient to certify that it will minimize displacement of persons as a result of activities assisted with CDBG funds. The CNMI government does not plan on undertaking any activity which will cause displacement of person. In the event of any unforeseen displacement resulting from any CDBG funded activity, the CNMI government will comply with the requirements of the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970, its implementing regulation and applicable local law.

HOME funds may be used to create affordable housing through financing assistance, site acquisition or improvement, and rehabilitating existing residential dwellings as well as providing funds for new construction or purchase of a single-family residential dwelling. Use of HOME funds must benefit low-income families.

ESG funds may be used to rehabilitate or convert to buildings into homeless shelters and for shelter operating expenses, supportive services and homeless prevention and rapid re-housing activities. Use of ESG funds must benefit the homeless.

Applications for the use of CPD funds are available for pick up at the Northern Marianas Housing Corporation (NMHC) located in Garapan, Saipan; San Jose Village, Tinian; and, Songsong Village, Rota, beginning December 19, 2022.

You may also obtain the application online at www.nmhcgov.net in the section titled "Public Notice/Announcement" subsection "Community Planning Development"

Applications must be submitted to the NMHC Offices in Garapan, Saipan (Saipan Residents); San Jose, Tinian (Tinian Residents); and, Songsong Village, Rota (Rota Residents) by March 20, 2023, no later than 4:30 p.m. Applications submitted after March 20, 2023, will not be accepted.

A briefing will be conducted for interested applicants and for those applicants who have picked up an application for the use of CPD funds. The briefing will address the program requirements and regulations concerning the usage of CPD funds.

The schedules for briefing are as follows:

February 13, 2023, 6:00 p.m. for the island of Saipan
February 14, 2023, 6:00 p.m. for the island of Tinian
February 16, 2023 6:00 p.m. for the island of Rota

We are encouraging all non-profit, for profit, and government service providers who are providing services to people with disabilities, homeless individuals, and emergency shelter administrators and operators to attend this briefing.

For residents living on the island of Saipan, the briefing will be held at the NMHC Office in Garapan; Residents living on the island of Tinian, the briefing will be held at the NMHC Office at the NMC Campus, Building A; and Residents living on the island of Rota, the briefing will be held at the Rota Mayor's Office Conference Room in Tatachog.

Accommodations for disabled individuals or other non-English speaking individuals who wish to attend the briefing are available upon request by giving at least 24 hours notice prior to the meeting so that such needs can be arranged and provided. Additional inquiries, concerning the CPD program, may be directed to Ms. Zenie P. Mafnas, Deputy Corporate Director or Ms. Tricia Tenorio, Planner at 234-6866 or 234-9447.

United Airlines launches fare sale to Japan

GUAM—United Airlines launched a special 55th anniversary fare sale on its direct routes to Japan from Saipan and Guam, only two weeks after announcing its flights to Japan will significantly increase during the summer travel season.

This special fare offers Basic Economy tickets beginning at $455 to commemorate United's 55 years of service in Guam and Micronesia, which United is celebrating now through 2024.

"As we celebrate United's 55th anniversary in Guam and Micronesia, United is saying thank you to its customers, friends, and family in the region for choosing United," said Sam Shinohara, United's managing director of Airport Operations, Asia-Pacific. "As the proud hometown carrier in the region, we enjoy our important job of connecting our customers to the world."

Customers in Guam can book this special fare immediately for all routes between Guam (GUM) and Japan—Narita/Tokyo (NRT), Chubu/Nagoya (NGO), Kansai/Osaka (KIX), and Fukuoka (FUK). Customers on Saipan can book travel to Japan on United's nonstop service from Saipan (SPN) to NRT, which flies three times weekly between the two destinations.

The 55th anniversary fare is available now through March 19, 2023, for travel between March 10 and May 31, 2023, and is valid for weekday travel for a 21-day maximum stay. Fares are subject to the availability on United aircraft only. Seats are also capacity-controlled and may not be available on all flights and/or dates. Terms and conditions apply.

"As the cherry blossoms begin to bloom and the temperatures start to warm up, this is one of the most beautiful times of the year to visit Japan. Adventure and discovery await you in Japan!" Shinohara added.

United recently announced its 2023 Japan and Guam summer flight schedule, which becomes effective March 26, 2023. United will significantly increase its flights on all routes between Guam and Japan—NRT, NGO, KIX, and FUK—to a total of up to 56 flights a week.

United continues to offer three weekly flights between SPN and NRT. Flight schedules are subject to change without advance notice. Customers are encouraged to book their flights through united.com, the United app, through local travel agents, or at United's City Ticket Office in Tiyan.

United reminds customers that Early Check-in service is available for all Guam travelers who are leaving on early morning flights. Passengers can check in the night before their flights to avoid long lines at the airport. Early Check-in service is offered daily from 7:30pm to 9:30pm at the United counter at the A. B. Won Pat International Airport, Guam. (PR)

Favoring continuity, China reappoints central bank governor

BEIJING (AP)—China on Sunday reappointed Yi Gang as head of the central bank in an effort to reassure entrepreneurs and financial markets by showing continuity at the top while other economic officials change.

Yi, whose official title is governor of the People's Bank of China, plays no role in making monetary policy, unlike his counterparts in other major economies. His official duties lie in "implementing monetary policy," or carrying out decisions made by a policymaking body whose membership is a secret.

But the central bank governor acts as spokesperson for monetary policy, is the most prominent Chinese figure in global finance and is in charge of reassuring bankers and investors at a time when China's economy is emerging from drastically slower growth.

At the March 5 opening of the annual session of China's rubber-stamp parliament, the National People's Congress, China announced plans for a consumer-led revival of the struggling economy, setting this year's growth target at "around 5%."

Last year's growth fell to 3%, the second-weakest level since at least the 1970s, putting president and head of the ruling Communist Party Xi Jinping under exceptional pressure to revitalize the economy.

A longtime veteran of monetary policy departments, Yi was first appointed governor of the People's Bank of China in March 2018, taking over from the highly regarded Zhou Xiaochuan.

Before becoming governor, Yi spent 20 years at the central bank after getting his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois and working as a professor of economics at Indiana University from 1986 to 1994.

He is also a co-founder and professor at Peking University's China Center for Economic Research.

The ruling Communist Party made a similar decision to opt for continuity in 2013, when then-PBOC governor Zhou, who already had been in the job for a decade, stayed on as governor while all other economic regulators changed.

Loria International Buffet's dessert lineup isn't only a feast for the eyes but also for the palate.

KENSINGTON

simply hope that there are moments when people feel that they are in luck. That's why we took it one step further and gave a bigger discount at our main three outlets," said E-Land Group Social Responsibility manager Lindsey Ahn.

This works out perfectly as customers can sample Asian and continental cuisine at Loria International Buffet one day and then try delectable gourmet Chinese fare at East Moon Asian Buffet the next. And if you want the outdoors while munching on Saipan's favorite food—barbecue—then the Ocean Grill Outdoor BBQ might just be for you.

"They can enjoy our dinner buffet a great deal as they now can expect a nice dining experience at a better price. Each outlet offers not only different dishes, but also different settings and ambience. We want more people to try that. We are confident that the quality of our food will exceed their expectations as our high standards are quite known to the public by now," said Ahn.

Asked what makes Kensington Hotel a foodies' delight, she said the first thing that comes to mind is their dessert line.

"Our dessert is way beyond what you expect for after-meal sweets as our tiramisu, chocolate cake, lemon meringue cake, and fig fresh cream cake are simply the best. At Loria, there's also a popular meme in K-Pop saying, 'we don't know what you like, so we have it all.' For East Moon, I would say, we currently don't have much of a Chinese cuisine-inspired buffet on Saipan so East Moon fills the niche and our recently hired chef is working hard to perfect the taste of each Chinese dish. Ocean Grill has its own unique vibe—good food, good evening breeze, and good music mix with good chemistry. Our band is also good at interacting with the audience," said Ahn.

And Kensington Hotel will not limit the discount promotion at its outlets to March, as it will run until April 30.

"If your special day or special date is marked in the calendar of March or April, then you're lucky! Also, we often hear from our local guests that Kensington is too far. We wanted to give them more reasons to visit us during weekdays, so we're giving bigger discounts during weekdays," she added.

Game-changing treatment for CKD could slow down disease’s progress

By DEB BALZER
MAYO CLINIC NEWS NETWORK

About 15% of adults in the U.S. are estimated to have chronic kidney disease—that’s about 37 million people. What if those people could be treated with medication that could slow the progression of their disease, and help avoid the need for di-alysis and kidney transplantation altogether? Dr. Naim Issa, a Mayo Clinic transplant nephrologist says there is a class of medications to help people with chronic kidney disease that does just that. He says Mayo Clinic has been incorporating these medications to help patients for the last few years. Most people don’t have symptoms of chronic kidney disease until it’s at an advanced stage. “Early detection of chronic kidney disease may help us actually treat and prevent patients ahead of time before the need for dialysis or kidney transplantation,” says Dr. Issa. He says a new class of drugs, SGLT2 inhibitors, is being called a game changer.

The drugs were originally designed to treat diabetes—a main cause of chronic kidney disease. Medicines in the SGLT2 inhibitor class include canagliflozin, dapagliflozin and empagliflozin. “In large trials, we observed groundbreaking success with those medications in slowing down the progression of chronic kidney disease, to the extent of avoiding dialysis and the need for kidney transplantation,” Dr. Issa says. The medications are used whether the patient is diabetic or not. “They are actually game-changer medications that help us prevent the progression of chronic kidney disease,” says Dr. Issa.

You can help yourself by following a low-sodium, moderate-protein diet, avoid smoking and getting plenty of exercise. Dr. Issa says it is important that patients with chronic kidney disease work with their primary care physician and health care team to monitor and check blood pressure, urine analysis and bloodwork.

$35 for insulin? What to know about Eli Lilly’s price slash for diabetic medicine

By MICHELLE MARCHANTE
MIAMI HERALD

Eli Lilly plans to slash the cost of some of its most popular insulin drugs later this year for people with and without insurance, in a move that could make the lifesaving medication more affordable for some patients living with diabetes. The company is capping the out-of-pocket cost of its insulin at $35 a month for people who have private insurance or Medicare and for people without insurance who are enrolled in its Insulin Value Program, CNN reports. Lilly is also planning to cut the list prices for some of its most popular, albeit older, insulin products by 70% or more, starting in October.

Here’s what to know: Which insulin will be cheaper? Humalog, Lilly’s most commonly prescribed insulin, and another insulin product, Humulin, will be cheaper later this year. A 10-milliliter vial of Humalog will go from a list price of $274.70 to $66.40, The Associated Press reports, while the same amount of Humulin will see its list price drop from $148.70 to $44.61. The company is also reducing the list price of its authorized generic version of Humalog to $25 a vial starting in May, down from a current list price of $82.41 for a vial. The company says this will make it the lowest list-priced mealtime insulin available. List price is how much people without insurance or those who have a high deductible insurance plan usually pay. But those with insurance might not notice a drop in price immediately, or at all. “Lilly was already charging insurers only a fraction of its high list price when accounting for rebates and discounts,” according to The New York Times. For people without insurance, you can download the Lilly Insulin Value Program savings card at InsulinAffordability.com to receive insulin for $35 per month. It’s also worth noting that there is a $35 monthly cap on the out-of-pocket cost of insulin for seniors enrolled in Medicare due to the recently passed Inflation Reduction Act. Price of insulin has skyrocketed Insulin helps people with diabetes control their blood sugar. There are about 37.3 million people, or more than 1 in 10, in the United States who have diabetes, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Another 96 million U.S. adults—about 1 in 3—have prediabetes. Those who have type 1 diabetes, which stems from the body’s immune system destroying the insulin-producing cells in the pancreas, a condition normally diagnosed in young people, need to take insulin every day to survive. Those with type 2 diabetes, which is primarily lifestyle-related and develops later in life, also may have to take insulin. The retail cost of insulin has risen significantly through the years. In 1999, a vial of Eli Lilly’s Humalog cost $21 a vial. By 2019, the cost of that same vial was $332, a more than 1,000 percent increase, according to a report from “PBS NewsHour.” Rationing of insulin The higher costs have led some people with diabetes to ration their insulin. An estimated 1.3 million adults rationed the medication’s use in 2021, or 16.5 percent of those who had been prescribed insulin, according to a November study published in the Annals of Internal Medicine. Lilly’s decision to reduce the cost of some of their insulin comes amid pressure from lawmakers and critics to control mounting prices. “We applaud Eli Lilly for taking the important step to limit cost-sharing for its insulin, and we encourage other insulin manufacturers to do the same. While we have been able to help achieve significant progress on the issue of insulin affordability, including Medicare’s new out-of-pocket cost cap on insulin, state copay caps, and patient assistance developments from insulin manufacturers, we know that our work is not done, said Charles “Chuck” Henderson, CEO of the American Diabetes Association, in a statement. “We will work to ensure that Eli Lilly’s patient assistance program is benefiting patients as intended and continue the fight so that everyone who needs insulin has access.”

How to get the most out of napping

While closing your eyes for a few minutes during your busy day may seem like a good idea, it’s important to consider the effects napping may bring. The time of day and length of time you nap can provide benefits or create problems. Knowing when to nap and providing yourself with a suitable napping environment will produce the greatest benefits. Consider why you’re napping Before lying down to take a daily nap, you may want to consider why you began taking these naps. If you’ve been working the night shift or are a new parent, you probably have reason to be closing your eyes for a while. On the other hand, if you feel that a nap is essential to your daily functioning, you may have a bigger health problem that should be addressed with your health care team. Talking to your health care team is the best way to find out why you’re experiencing increased fatigue. The reasons for your exhaustion could be anything from having a sleep disorder, such as sleep apnea, to a side effect from a new medication. Drawbacks to napping Two drawbacks of napping include: 1. Sleep inertia Sleep inertia can involve waking up feeling groggy and disoriented after a nap. This can become a problem if you have places to be or tasks to complete after you wake up from your nap. 2. Nighttime sleep problems Problems can arise if your naps are too long or close to bedtime. Try not to nap if you experience insomnia or poor sleep quality at night, as napping may worsen these problems. Short naps are the best when trying to avoid interference with nighttime sleep. Benefits of napping Taking naps can provide many benefits to your health, such as: ■ Improved mood ■ Quicker reaction time ■ Better memory ■ Increased alertness ■ Reduced fatigue ■ Enhanced relaxation When to nap Did you know there are certain times when a nap may be more beneficial to your health? Take a nap: ■ If you’re experiencing new fatigue, but monitor your symptoms and discuss any concerns with your health care team. ■ If you’re about to experience sleep loss, such as a long travel day or workday. ■ If you want to make naps a part of your daily routine. In this situation, have a planned time of day and length of time to keep your schedule on track. Best way to nap Here are four tricks to make your naps more effective: 1. Set aside an allotted amount of time. If you wake up feeling groggy after a nap, you’re sleeping too long. The ideal nap length is between 15 and 30 minutes. 2. Plan to take naps in the afternoon. The idea time to nap is around 2 p.m. or 3 p.m. This is because you’re likely to experience a lower level of alertness or sleepiness following lunch. You’re also more likely to avoid interference with nighttime sleep if you nap around this time. However, some people may adjust their napping times to fit their work or school schedules. 3. Create a tranquil environment. Some people struggle to sleep during the day, but there are actions you can take to help you become more relaxed. Eliminate distractions when napping, so turn off any screens, such as your phone. Find a quiet space with minimal light to improve your naps. Adjusting the room temperature to what is comfortable for you also can make your space more comfortable. 4. Give yourself time to wake up. Allowing yourself enough time to wake up before resuming activities after your nap is important, as you may feel groggy or less alert. Talk with your health care team if you struggle with ongoing daytime fatigue. A physical exam or sleep study may be necessary to rule out health conditions that are affecting the quality of your sleep. *Tiffany Casper, D.O., is a Family Medicine physician in Tomah, Wisconsin. Oscars producers have one main goal: Keep you entertained

By LINDSEY BAHR
AP FILM WRITER

The opening of the 95th Academy Awards on Sunday is going to be a “moment,” the show’s producers promise.

They won’t say what exactly it is — A montage? A Billy Crystal-inspired skit where Jimmy Kimmel pretends to be in all the best picture nominees? A secret performance? Tom Cruise landing a jet atop the Dolby Theatre?

It will not, however, include Lady Gaga—the best original song nominee is currently in the midst of production on the “Joker” sequel.

But Glenn Weiss and Ricky Kirshner, this year’s executive producers and showrunners, are certain that it’s going to pull audiences in and keep them engaged for the duration.

Both Weiss and Kirshner are live television veterans.

They’ve done the Grammys, Tonys, Emmys, the Super Bowl and even a presidential inauguration. But the Oscars is a first for Kirshner.

“There’s only a few shows on the bucket list,” Kirshner said. “I needed to go for the awards show EGOT.”

Still, it’s a job not everyone is cut out for. One might even wonder why Weiss, who was the director of the show when both Envelopegate and

The Slap happened, would want to put himself through it again.

“I think part of what scares a lot of people away from what I love about live television is having to think on your feet and keep moving forward and changing despite what’s in the script,” Weiss said. “A lot of directors are all about what’s in the script. I think my energy comes from leaving that script and going forward. Any particular incident aside, I really love the thrill of live television.”

Their goal this year is to celebrate a great year of movies. And it doesn’t hurt that they have several billion-dollar blockbusters in the mix, with “Top Gun: Maverick” and “Avatar: The Way of Water” both up for best picture. And though their involvement was decided much earlier than usual, it always ends up being a race to the finish: There’s only so much planning that can be done before they know who the nominees are.

“I really think that the nominations have put so much interesting material in front of us,” Weiss said. “We want to keep the audience who have seen these movies really wanting to see more and wanting to learn more about the creators. We’re here celebrating the movies. We’re celebrating the moviemakers both in front of and behind the camera.”

No verdict yet in trial of XXXTentacion’s accused killers

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Jurors in the trial of three men accused of murdering rising rap star XXXTentacion outside a motorcycle dealership nearly five years ago failed to reach a verdict Friday, meaning they will resume next week.

The jury deliberated for about five hours Friday, bringing the total to about 10 hours since getting the case late Wednesday. The panel of 12 will return to court Monday.

They made their first request of Circuit Judge Michael Usan on Friday, asking to see a transcript of the statement alleged ringleader Detric Williams gave detectives after his arrest. None was presented at trial, so they were told to rely on their recollection of what detectives testified about it.

Accused shooter Michael Boatwright, 28, Williams, 26, and accused second gunman Trayvon Newsome, 24, are all charged with first-degree murder and armed robbery. They all face mandatory life sentences if convicted. Prosecutors did not seek the death penalty.

A fourth man, 26-year-old Robert Allen, pleaded guilty last year to second-degree murder and testified against his former friends.

XXXTentacion, whose real name was Jahseh Onfroy, had just left Riva Motorsports in suburban Fort Lauderdale with a friend on June 18, 2018, when his BMW was blocked by an SUV that swerved in front.

Surveillance video showed that two masked gunmen emerged and confronted the 20-year-old singer at the driver’s window, and one shot him repeatedly. They then grabbed a Louis Vuitton bag containing $50,000 that XXXTentacion had just withdrawn from the bank, got back into the SUV and sped away. The friend was not harmed.

Robert Blake, actor acquitted in wife’s killing, dies at 89

LOS ANGELES

(AP)—Robert Blake, the Emmy award-winning performer who went from acclaim for his acting to notoriety when he was tried and acquitted in the killing of his wife, died Thursday at age 89.

A statement released on behalf of his niece, Noreen Austin, said Blake died from heart disease, surrounded by family at home in Los Angeles.

Blake, star of the 1970s TV show, “Baretta,” had once hoped for a comeback, but he never recovered from the long ordeal which began with the shooting death of his wife, Bonny Lee Bakley, outside a Studio City restaurant on May 4, 2001. The story of their strange marriage, the child it produced and its violent end was a Hollywood tragedy played out in court.

Once hailed as among the finest actors of his generation, Blake became better known as the center of a real-life murder trial. Many remembered him not as the rugged, dark-haired star of “Baretta,” but as a spectral, white-haired murder defendant.

In a 2002 interview with The Associated Press while he was jailed awaiting trial, he bemoaned the change in his status with his fans nationwide: “It hurt because America is the only family I had.”

He was adamant that he had not killed his wife, who was shot once in head outside a Los Angeles restaurant where the couple had just dined in May 2001, and a jury ultimately acquitted him. But a civil jury would find him liable for her death and order him to pay Bakley’s family $30 million, a judgment which sent him into bankruptcy.

Pence says Trump ‘endangered my family’ on Jan. 6

WASHINGTON

(AP)—Former Vice President Mike Pence on Saturday harshly criticized former President Donald Trump for his role in the Jan. 6 riot at the U.S. Capitol, widening the rift between the two men as they prepare to battle over the Republican nomination in next year’s election.

“President Trump was wrong,” Pence said during remarks at the annual white-tie

Pence

Gridiron Dinner attended by politicians and journalists. “I had no right to overturn the election. And his reckless words endangered my family and everyone at the Capitol that day, and I know history will hold Donald Trump accountable.”

Pence’s remarks were the sharpest condemnation yet from the once-loyal lieutenant who has often shied away from confronting his former boss. Trump has already declared his candidacy. Pence has not, but he’s been laying the groundwork to run.

In the days leading up to Jan. 6, 2021, Trump pressured Pence to overturn President Joe Biden’s election victory as he presided over the ceremonial certification of the results. Pence refused, and when rioters stormed the Capitol, some chanted that they wanted to “hang Mike Pence.”

The House committee that investigated the attack said in its final report that “the President of the United States had riled up a mob that hunted his own Vice President.”

With his remarks, Pence solidified his place in a broader debate within the Republican Party over how to view the attack. House Speaker Kevin McCarthy, for example, recently provided Tucker Carlson with an archive of security camera footage from Jan. 6, which the Fox News host has used to downplay the day’s events and promote conspiracy theories.

Boyfriend texts exes on special occasions

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have been together six years. We are both divorced. We plan on being married in six months. He’s a perfect partner except for one thing. Every holiday, he jumps out of bed in the morning and takes his phone with him into the bathroom. There he texts his ex-wife and ex-girlfriend. He feels the need to wish them a happy whatever holiday it is. This hurts my feelings.

I don’t understand why it’s so important for him to contact them. Apparently, they are the first thing on his mind every holiday, or maybe every day. I don’t know if I should marry him. I believe he still loves his ex-wife. Help, please.

SUSPICIOUS IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: I will assume that sometime over the past six years you have discussed this at least once with your boyfriend. This means he knows that when he jumps out of bed, takes his phone and hides in the bathroom to text his exes, it makes you feel insecure.

If you really think he may still be in love with his ex-wife, do not marry this person. Because the two of you intend to move on to the next level (engagement), it’s time for you to seek premarital counseling. If you do, you will discuss topics such as money, child-rearing and whatever he is doing that makes you uncomfortable (and vice versa). It should help you avoid conflict once you are married.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a small town with a population of about 10,000. There is almost nothing to do here. There is a skating rink, a movie theater and a bowling alley. Since bowling in a league is a weekly thing, I joined one.

Our bowling center has been bought by a former professional bowler. She has formed a team consisting of herself, her fiancée, her son and a friend who are all top-notch bowlers. Her son scores in the high 200s every game he bowls. Since they own the place, they get unlimited practice. The lady pro has taught them everything she knows. The rest of us don’t stand a chance of winning a game against them. Should I just not care and think of it as a night out, and accept that when we bowl against the “big guns,” as they have been referred to, we can count on losing?

It’s true that it’s not about winning; it’s about having fun. But it’s disheartening that we already know the outcome before the night begins. There are other leagues to bowl in. Maybe I should join one of those? If we all drop out one by one, I’m sure they will figure out what’s going on. Any advice?

This is her livelihood, and she needs to know that it may be time to start a new league of less practiced bowlers like yourself. If she’s a good businesswoman, she will be open to it. If she isn’t, you and the others should take your business elsewhere.

Last Friday's Answer 03/13

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DAY: Adam Clayton, 63; Dana Delany, 67; William H. Macy, 73; Neil Sedaka, 84.

Happy Birthday: Make every move count this year. Be realistic, plan and prepare diligently and distance yourself from impossible situations that will hold you back. Evaluate your financial situation and implement changes geared toward safe investments, saving and managing your money better. Be innovative but practical when dealing with domestic issues and relationships. Be supportive of others, but make your values and goals your priorities. Your numbers are 7, 15, 18, 24, 35, 41, 43.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take an obscure path that stimulates your creative awareness and helps you recognize prospects you never knew existed. Channel your energy into learning, meetings and negotiating your way into something new and exciting, not to mention financially beneficial. ★★★★★

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You'll have a change of heart if you discuss your grievances with someone who controls a situation that concerns you. Bartering will ensure you don't lose what matters to you. Nurture relationships, compromise and do whatever it takes to succeed. ★★★

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you take care of responsibilities without complaint, you'll bypass an emotional argument that has the potential to put an end to what you are trying to achieve. Someone will intervene and make you look bad if given a chance. ★★

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Recognize who is on your side before you reveal your point of view. Reworking your plans to entice someone who can offer something you need will be worthwhile. Your words will determine which door opens and which remains closed. ★★★

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Honesty will help you get the truth from others. Look for opportunities that allow you to use the skills you enjoy to earn a living. Aggressive action won't help you reach your goal, but charm will do the job, and success will follow. ★★★★★

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emotions will surface. Formulate how to approach people who may not share your concerns or plans before you reveal how you will proceed. Consider what others want before pitching your plans and offering incentives that are hard to turn down. ★★

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Who you confide in or do business with will change the outcome of a deal. Do your due diligence before entering into an agreement that isn't a sure thing. Forgo signing anything until you have a legal expert give you the go-ahead. ★★★★★

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Participate in activities that give you a platform to pontificate; you'll get a sense of how popular your plans are with others. Elaborate, but don't hide the overall costs. Money will be a factor when dealing with investments, contracts and spending. ★★★

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Notice what's happening around you. Listen to what others think and how they react to change, and you'll realize what you must do to win support. An opportunity to fix up your space to suit your needs will contribute to your success. ★★★

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): How you assist others or a cause that concerns you will help you connect with people who can shape your future. A change at home will make your life easier and bring you closer to someone who lights up your world. ★★★

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Put your time and effort into doing things your way, and you'll find the success you deserve. Take a unique approach, and you'll spark interest and input, influencing you to make a last-minute change. If you believe in yourself, so will everyone else. ★★★★★

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Focus on a different approach to life, love and overall happiness. Make an effort to lift others' enthusiasm with a positive attitude, and you'll gain respect and the help required to get things done on time. Share your thoughts without criticism. ★★

Birthday Baby: You are original, demonstrative and resourceful. You are persistent and ambitious.

☉: Avoid conflicts; work behind the scenes. ☿: You can accomplish, but don't rely on others. ♀: Focus and you'll reach your goals. ♀♀: Aim high; start new projects. ♀♀♀: Nothing can stop you; go for gold.

Curry leads Warriors to OT win over NBA-leading Bucks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stephen Curry scored 36 points with 22 of those in the fourth quarter and overtime, shining in his first home game back from a long injury absence and leading the Golden State Warriors past the NBA-best Milwaukee Bucks 125-116 on Saturday night.

Curry hit a tying 3-pointer with 19 seconds left in regulation, then blocked a layup attempt by Jrue Holiday in the closing moments. The Warriors got the ball back with 1.9 seconds remaining and Curry inbounded to Draymond Green, who missed from deep.

Holiday had put Milwaukee up on a 3 with 32.7 seconds to play and wound up with 18 points, nine rebounds and eight assists. But the Bucks, playing without star Giannis Antetokounmpo, had their three-game winning streak snapped with just their second defeat in 21 games since Jan. 21.

Thompson added 22 points, Donte DiVincenzo had 20 points and 10 rebounds and the Warriors won at home for the seventh in a row and 11th in 12.

Khris Middleton had 19 points and five assists, Bobby Portis contributed 15 points and 13 rebounds and Brook Lopez 19 points and seven boards for Milwaukee.

CELTICS 134, HAWKS 125

ATLANTA (AP)—Jayson Tatum led a balanced attack by scoring 11 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter, and Boston overcame Atlanta's fourth-quarter comeback bid.

The Celtics opened a six-game trip by having six players score in double figures. Jaylen Brown had 24 points. Tatum added 15 rebounds.

Trae Young had 35 points and 13 assists for Atlanta, which could not maintain momentum following back-to-back wins at Washington. The Hawks remain eighth in the Eastern Conference standings.

With 1:25 remaining and Boston leading 129-121, Young and Marcus Smart had to be separated after the two were entangled and fell to the court under the Celtics' basket. Smart was called for an initial foul before a lengthy review by the officials called both players for technical fouls and ejected Smart. Young made two free throws to cut the deficit to six points.

CLIPPERS 106, KNICKS 95

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Kawhi Leonard scored 38 points and the Los Angeles Clippers pulled away in the fourth quarter to beat New York.

Paul George added 22 points for the Clippers, who have won three straight after dropping five in a row.

It was Leonard's seventh straight game with at least 21 points, and he is averaging 31 points during that stretch. He also has four 30-point games during that span.

Immanuel Quickley had 26 points and 10 rebounds for the Knicks, who have dropped three straight after a nine-game winning streak. Quickley started in place of Jalen Brunson, who was sidelined with a sore left foot. Julius Randle scored 19 despite shooting 5 of 24.

PACERS 121, PISTONS 115

DETROIT (AP)—Jalen Smith scored 11 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter and Indiana beat Detroit to extend the Pistons' losing streak to 11 games.

Isaiah Jackson added 19 points and 11 rebounds for Indiana, which improved to 5-2 in its last seven games.

Isaiah Livers had a career-high 18 points for Detroit, which dropped to a league-worst 15-53. Killian Hayes had 17 points and 13 assists.

The Pistons were missing five of their top six scorers; Hayes was the only one in the lineup. The Pacers played without Tyrese Haliburton, Benedict Mathurin and Myles Turner.

MAGIC 126, HEAT 114, OT

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Wendell Carter had 27 points and 11 rebounds and Orlando bounced back from a fourth-quarter collapse to beat Miami in overtime.

Jimmy Butler scored 38 points for the Heat, including 15 in the final six minutes of the fourth quarter when Miami overcame a 15-point deficit. Butler's 3-pointer at the buzzer sent the game to overtime.

The finish of the fourth quarter included a wild sequence during which Paolo Banchero's foul on a 3-point attempt by Butler with 14.5 seconds left was overturned by a replay.

Banchero had 17 points, 10 rebounds and nine assists for the Magic. Franz Wagner had 17 points and eight rebounds before leaving with an ankle injury early in the fourth quarter.

BULLS 119, ROCKETS 111

HOUSTON (AP)—Zach LaVine scored 36 points and DeMar DeRozan added 27 as Chicago used a huge run in the fourth quarter to top the Rockets.

The Bulls trailed by four midway through the fourth before going on a 13-0 run for a 115-106 lead with two minutes remaining.

DeRozan, who had seven rebounds and five assists, scored the first four points in the run and LaVine scored the next four. LaVine's second basket in that span came on an alley-oop from DeRozan, and former Rocket Patrick Beverley capped the run with a 3-pointer.

It's the second straight victory for the Bulls, who got 18 points and 11 rebounds from Nikola Vucevic and 16 points and 10 rebounds from Beverley. LaVine had nine rebounds and five assists.

Rookie Jabari Smith Jr. had 20 points and 10 rebounds for the Western Conference-worst Rockets, who dropped their third in a row.

GRIZZLIES 112, MAVERICKS 108

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Rookie David Roddy scored a career-high 24 points, including 17 points in the fourth quarter, and Memphis rallied past short-handed Dallas.

Roddy connected on 7 of 8 shots in the fourth, including 3 of 4 from outside the arc. Desmond Bane led the Grizzlies with 25 points, while Jaren Jackson Jr. finished with 14 points.

Tim Hardaway Jr. lead the Mavericks with 23 points, while Jaden Hardy finished with 22. Josh Green added 21 points for Dallas.

Two of the NBA's biggest stars—the Mavericks' Luka Doncic and Memphis' Ja Morant—were absent from the game. Doncic has a left thigh strain, while Morant is away from the team after posting a video last weekend in which he appeared to be displaying a gun at a Denver-area strip club.

THUNDER 110, PELICANS 96

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Shai Gilgeous-Alexander scored 35 points and Oklahoma City defeated undermanned New Orleans for its fourth victory in five games.

Josh Giddey added 19 points and Jalen Williams had 17 for the Thunder, who led most of the way and by as many as 21 in the first half. Gilgeous-Alexander, who did not attempt a 3-pointer, hit 11 of 23 shots and made all 13 of his free throws.

Already struggling during All-Star power forward Zion Williamson's extended injury absence, New Orleans also played without high-scoring wing Brandon Ingram, who entered the day listed as questionable after leaving a game Wednesday with a right ankle sprain. CJ McCollum scored 26 points to lead the Pelicans.

KINGS 128, SUNS 119

PHOENIX (AP)—Harrison Barnes scored 19 points, De'Aaron Fox and Malik Monk each added 18 and Sacramento used a balanced effort to beat Phoenix and snap the Suns' four-game winning streak.

The Kings moved 3 1/2 games ahead of the Suns for the No. 3 seed in the Western Conference playoff race. Domantas Sabonis had 17 points and a team-high eight rebounds for Sacramento, which ended the game on a 13-4 run.

The Suns were playing their second straight game without recently-acquired star Kevin Durant, who hurt his ankle during pregame warmups before Wednesday's game. The team says he has a sprained left ankle and will be re-evaluated in three weeks.

Devin Booker scored 28 points on 11-for-19 shooting for Phoenix. Deandre Ayton had 22 points and 12 rebounds, and Chris Paul added 16 points and 16 assists.

JAZZ 119, HORNETS 111

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Talen Horton-Tucker scored a season-high 37 points and had 10 assists and eight rebounds as Utah defeated Charlotte for its second win in a row.

Walker Kessler added 17 points and 16 rebounds and Kelly Olynyk had 17 points for the Jazz, who outrebounded the Hornets 60-43. Lauri Markkanen had 13 points and 13 rebounds.

Kelly Oubre Jr. scored 24 points and Terry Rozier added 22 for the Hornets, who had their two-game win streak snapped.

Grizzlies tried to address Morant's actions before gun video

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Memphis Grizzlies coach Taylor Jenkins said Thursday that members of the organization had spoken to All-Star guard Ja Morant about his off-the-court conduct before he posted a video in which he appeared to be displaying a gun in a strip club.

The team had been hoping to avoid a situation like what happened this past weekend, which led to Morant being away from the team for at least six games, Jenkins said before Thursday night's game against the Golden State Warriors.

"We have had conversations in the past trying to guide him and help him continue to evolve as a person and a player," Jenkins said of the discussions before the incident in Glendale, Colorado. "Obviously, this came to a head the other day, so we put this process into action."

Morant, the team's leading scorer, livestreamed the video of himself with the apparent weapon on his Instagram account after the Nuggets beat the Grizzlies on Friday night. Glendale police said Wednesday there was not enough evidence to pursue criminal charges against Morant.

The Grizzlies initially announced the 23-year-old would miss at least two games. Immediately after Glendale police said they would not pursue charges, the team said he would not play at least four more games.

That means the earliest Morant could return would be March 17 at San Antonio. The Grizzlies entered Thursday's game tied with Sacramento for second in the Western Conference.

"There are definitely steps that are going to have to be met — personally and professionally," Jenkins said, "as he deals with some stuff personally to get better."

Morant's absence comes with Memphis on a three-game losing streak. Reserve center Brandon Clarke tore his left Achilles tendon in Friday night's loss at Denver, ending his season. The team also announced Thursday that starting center Steven Adams, who was expected to return to action soon, would be re-evaluated in four weeks due to a knee injury.

But Morant's situation has drawn the most attention because of concerns about the behavior of one of the NBA's most electrifying players.

"Everyone wants to know what this going to be," Jenkins said of Morant's absence. "It's the hot topic for sure. But he's taking time. The responsibility to get better personally. That's a big factor in this."

Future of Lamar Jackson, Aaron Rodgers clouds free agency

By ROB MAADDI
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

NFL free agency kicks off next week and the biggest questions surround two star quarterbacks who aren't on the list.

Will Aaron Rodgers retire, return to Green Bay or get traded to the Jets or another team?

Will Lamar Jackson get a contract offer from any team knowing Baltimore can match it?

The league's legal tampering period opens Monday and plenty of free agents will be on the move when players can officially start signing new deals Wednesday.

Quarterbacks, of course, get the most money and attention.

Derek Carr, Geno Smith and Daniel Jones are already off the market after receiving huge contracts this week.

The Ravens gave Jackson a nonexclusive franchise tag so he can negotiate with other teams. Jackson would make $32.4 million if he plays this season on the non-exclusive tag.

If Baltimore lets him go, it'll receive two first-round picks. Some teams may be reluctant to pursue Jackson knowing the Ravens could end up keeping the 2019 NFL MVP. But it only takes one team to come up with a contract structured in a way—perhaps more guaranteed money than Baltimore wants to pay—to snatch the dynamic QB.

"We're always preparing for every contingency," Ravens general manager Eric DeCosta said last week. "We look at every situation—free agency, the draft. We're talking about any possible situation that might arise with players. In this business, you get surprised daily."

As for Rodgers, he has two years left on his contract and is due to make about $59.5 million this season. The Packers are waiting on the 39-year-old, four-time MVP to decide his future. He could end up in New York, stay put or hang up his cleats. Until Rodgers tells the Packers what he wants to do, they're in a holding pattern.

"Free agency's coming up here. That's an important part of what we're doing. So it'd be nice to have some answers before then," Packers GM Brian Gutekunst said last week. "But until we have any conversations, we're still in a good spot."

The most accomplished quarterback among the unrestricted free agents is Jimmy Garoppolo. He's 44-19 as a starter, including 4-2 in the playoffs and has been to one Super Bowl and an NFC championship game.

Jacoby Brissett, Gardner Minshew, Taylor Heinicke, Andy Dalton, Jameis Winston, Baker Mayfield, Teddy Bridgewater, Sam Darnold and Carson Wentz are also free agents. A few could get opportunities to start for teams who are grooming a rookie.

Beyond the QBs, the top players available play in the trenches.

Chiefs four-time Pro Bowl left tackle Orlando Brown Jr. headlines the list. Kansas City's decision not to use the franchise tag on Brown surprised many and now he hits the open market with a huge payday awaiting.

On the defensive line, Eagles tackle Javon Hargrave leads the list. Hargrave had a career-best 11 sacks in 2022. Denver's Dre'Mont Jones and Arizona's Zach Allen are also top talents.

At defensive end New Orleans' Marcus Davenport and Kansas City's Frank Clark lead the way.

Four defensive backs are among the top-tier free agents set to test the market. Buccaneers cornerback Jamel Dean, Eagles cornerback James Bradberry, Bengals safety Jessie Bates III and Eagles safety C.J. Gardner-Johnson are among a strong group.

Bobby Wagner, Buffalo's

Tremaine Edwards, Tampa Bay's Lavonte David and Tennessee's David Long Jr. are the top linebackers.

The wide receiver and tight end positions are thin. Odell Beckham Jr., who missed last season following ACL surgery, and New England's Jakobi Meyers should get the biggest deals among wideouts. Dallas' Dalton Schultz, Miami's Mike Gesekki and Cincinnati's Hayden Hurst stand out among tight ends.

Running back is deep despite Saquon Barkley, Josh Jacobs and Tony Pollard getting the franchise tag. Philadelphia's Miles Sanders, Detroit's Jamaal Williams, Chicago's David Montgomery and Seattle's Rashaad Penny are among the available runners.

The NFC champion Eagles might be most impacted by free agency. They have 10 starters from the Super Bowl who will be free agents along with several others who played key roles.

"We're going to prioritize the things that are important to us, that we build our team on," general manager Howie Roseman said. "We're going to make sure those areas are strong. Are we going to get all the free agents back? We're just not. We're not capable of getting all those guys back, but we also understand we're in a good situation in terms of picks that we have going forward. We have a lot of guys under contract, not only for this year, but going forward. We're not going to make excuses for the position we're in."

The Bears, Falcons, Texans, Raiders and Bengals have the most salary cap space. The Buccaneers, Saints, Bills, Cowboys and Rams have the least.

It's almost time to let the frenzy begin.

Geno Smith gets the spotlight after new deal with Seahawks

By TIM BOOTH
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Geno Smith finally got the payday and recognition that had eluded him for most of his career.

His response? Getting back to work even while he was being feted by the Seattle Seahawks in a way Smith had never experienced in his time as a pro.

"The contract is fulfilling, but I just love playing football," Smith said Thursday after signing his new three-year deal with the Seahawks.

The AP NFL comeback player of the year last season, Smith parlayed the best year of his pro career into a payday that he believes compensates him fairly while leaving Seattle with the flexibility to fill some needs in free agency.

Smith's deal is worth up to $105 million including all the incentives. But its base value gives general manager John Schneider some wiggle room.

"It's just a way for both parties to make it work," Smith said. "It allows the team room and space to do what they need to do, but it also gives me an opportunity to be one of the top 10 paid quarterbacks, which is something that I believe I am."

Smith was one of the feel-good stories in the league after getting an opportunity to start after nearly a decade as a backup and it changed the trajectory of his career. Smith led the Seahawks to a 9-8 record and a playoff berth as the last wild card in the NFC as he stepped into a starter's role following the trade of Russell Wilson to Denver.

Smith threw for 4,282 yards, a career high and a franchise record. He threw 30 touchdown passes and just 11 interceptions, completed 399 passes and led the NFL in completion percentage at 69.8%.

"There's a lot of years when Geno had to sit there and wait," coach Pete Carroll said. "The story that has been unveiled about believing in yourself and confidence and trust and never giving up, it's a vivid illustration for (Geno) and it's been so much fun to see this happen."

Smith's comeback season included a Pro Bowl selection and even a vote for MVP. When he won the starting job with the Seahawks, beating out Drew Lock for the nod, Smith was derided as being one of the worst starters in the league.

NFL awards 49ers league-high 7 compensatory draft picks

By JOSH DUBOW
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

The San Francisco 49ers added a league-high seven compensatory picks in next month's NFL draft, giving them 11 total selections.

The NFL awarded 37 compensatory picks to 16 teams on Thursday for the upcoming draft on April 27-29 in Kansas City, Missouri.

Picks are awarded to teams in the third-through-seventh rounds with 32 of the picks based on teams losing more or better free agents than they acquired last offseason and the other five given for minorities hired as head coaches or general managers for other organizations.

The 49ers got three of those five diversity picks in the end of the third round as rewards for developing Robert Saleh, Martin Mayhew, Mike McDaniels, Ran Carthon and Demeco Ryans in the last three hiring cycles.

Cleveland and Kansas City got the other two diversity picks for general managers for Kwesi Adofo-Mensah and Ryan Poles.

The Super Bowl-champion Chiefs also got two picks through the free agency formula to give them three total comp picks.

San Francisco got the maximum four picks awarded through the free agency formula, with those selections coming at the fifth and sixth rounds, as well as two in the seventh.

The Niners turned a seventh-round compensatory pick last year into quarterback Brock Purdy, who helped San Francisco reach the NFC title game by winning his first seven starts as a rookie.

San Francisco won't make its first pick until No. 99 near the end of the third round after giving away their first-rounder for Trey Lance and second and third-rounders for Christian McCaffrey.

The Rams added four compensatory picks through free agency, with Arizona and Dallas getting three; Green Bay, Las Vegas, New England, Tampa Bay, Washington and the Giants getting two each, Minnesota and

New Orleans getting one.

Arizona and Washington got the only third-round picks based on free agency, with the Cardinals adding the 96th pick after losing receiver Christian Kirk, and Washington getting the 97th pick after losing guard Brandon Scherff.

Compensatory free agents are determined by a formula based on salary, playing time and postseason honors. Not every free agent lost or signed by a club is covered by this formula.

Chicago and Houston got supplemental selections as the final two picks in the draft because only 30 picks were handed out through the free agency formula.

Over 1,200 complete Triple J 5K Bubble Color Run

The return of the Triple J

Saipan 5K Family Fun Run/Walk's Bubble Color Run saw more than 1,200 colorful participants—with runners Sildrey Veloria and Tiana Cabrera topping their respective divisions.

The run/walk started and ended at the Garapan Fishing Base with a turnaround just past the Quartermaster Road last Saturday morning.

Runners/walkers were greeted with explosions of colored powder at designated stops along Beach Road then at the finish line, they were met with more explosions of color. They then made their way to “shower” at the bubble machine—with kids and adults alike having fun with the special feature of the event.

The Top 3 overall male behind Veloria's time of 19:00, were Pony Tang just 17 seconds after, then Kosuke Sato with a time of 19:26.

Veloria was acknowledged for his recent trip down under in the CNMI's debut in the World Athletics Cross Country Championships 10-kilometer run in Bathurst, Australia last month. Veloria said about repping NMI was that “it was scary at first, but I just focused on my training Team Tomodachi has won the 2023 Rocccball championship games held last week at the Marianas High School Gymnasium for the second time in two years.

Team Tomodachi defeated the players of Team Nakama in the best-of-three finals for their back-to-back title.

Tomodachi defeated Team Nakama in the first game, 47-32, and won the Rocccball championship in the second game with a 44-31 win. In their two games of competition there were a total of 27 two-point aces, five two-point xunks, four two-point backcourt kees, and four three-point goals scored in addition to the one point floor scores.

Team Tomodachi's total score for two games was 91 points. Of those points scored,

Tomodachi is '23 Rocccball champion

68% were of Rocccball's multiple point scoring techniques. Team Nakama scored a total of 63 points in the playoff games and scored 65% in the multiple point scoring methods. Team Tomodachi scored 29 one-point court plays and Team Nakama scored 35 one-point court plays.

A major difference and an important factor between game points between Tomodachi and Nakama were the teams' players skills in the scoring the aces, xunks, kees, and goals of Rocccball's team net sport scoring system. The Heavy Hitter of the championship games was Juruel Magatales of Team Tomodachi with five aces, two xunks, and two goals. (PR) with a final score of 2-0.

Both goals were scored by sisters Beatrice Gross (in the first half's sixth minute) and Phoenix Gross (in the 43rd minute).

The Hilitais, throughout the game, fought hard with their team's top scorers, Yelynn Ha and Alyssa Borlongan, relentlessly attacking the Geckos' defenses and creating scoring opportunities.

However, it was the work of Geckos goalie Keylie Claveria that stopped a penalty kick from Ha and multiple attempts at the net as the Hilitais pushed to get on the scoreboard. With that, Claveria was handed the championship game's MVP award.

Despite the loss, the Hilitais did not go home empty-handed as they won second place and Borlongan won the Golden Boot Award for the most goals of the season with 20.

The Geckos' head coach April Liske-Clark said, “it's awesome to finally walk away with first place and going undefeated for the season. We have a couple of 8th graders and everybody else is sixth and seventh so we're hoping for another couple of good years.”

With their game against the Hilitais, Liske-Clark said, “Hopwood's an amazing team, so we're very lucky to come away with the win, but the girls worked really hard. They're very closely matched and it was a really good game.”

The Geckos' lineup consisted of the Gross sisters, Claveria, Faith Arriola, Eliza Culp, Reagan Gonzales, Anne Lee, Malia Rayphand, Aubrey White, and Sage Xu.

In the third place game earlier in the afternoon, the Tanapag Middle School Tatagas defeated the DanDan Middle School Tottots, 4-2.

A total of six middle schools—including ChaCha Ocean View Middle School and Francisco M. Sablan Middle School and 83 players joined this season.

Total weight winner, meanwhile, was the Marilyn with Jesse C. Taitano as captain and Jesseboy Taitano as the crew. They won $500 for totaling 61.1 lbs.

Side bet winner for the heaviest mahi was Mako Pacific after captain Kiku Hapdei and crew member Vicente Masga reeled in a 25.4-lb mahi.

The 4th Annual Wahoo in the Marianas Fishing Tournament is one of Tasi To Table's main yearly fishing events.

It is a student-run fishing derby as students were in charge of soliciting in-kind donations, helping with the designs of the marketing and promotional materials for the event (flyers, volunteer shirts, hoodie rashguards for fishermen, trophies), and going on the radio to promote the event, etc.

On registration day, students handled processing registrations and payments and getting fishermen their shirts. On the day of the derby, students assisted with getting fish off of fishermen's boats, getting the fish weighed, etc. Tasi To Table Also had students assist with event photography.

and went at my own pace...” About the Bubble Run, he said “It was fun. I was hoping to get maybe around 18 minutes but I need more training.”

The Top 3 female is Tiana Cabrera with a time of 23:00, second was Bella Pastula with 23:55, and Marjorie Daria rounded it up with 26:24.

Cabrera, for her part, said this was her third Bubble Color Run and that it “was really good. I just wanted to keep my pace up and it went well. I love these kinds of races because it pushes me and I love the excitement, so it really helped me a lot.”

Triple J Enterprises Inc. vice president Mike Sablan, said in an interview, “This is Triple J's third Bubble Color Run. We had to stop because of the pandemic during 2020, so we're so happy to bring this back to Saipan. We were expecting around 1,000 participants but we exceeded that... It was a lot of fun. It was not just a competitive race for those who are working on their times, but it's also just a lot of family fun.”

“It's a feel-good type of event made possible by the sponsors and Jones family with the proceeds to be donated to the Make-A-Wish-Foundation and the Marianas March Against Cancer. I'm so glad the turn out came out very nice,” said Sablan.

Sponsors of the event were Tan Siu Lin Foundation, United Airlines, Bank of Guam, Marianas Variety, Mobil Oil Marianas, Power 99, IT&E, Ahglow Products USA, Spa Ocean, Latte Built Gym & Fitness, AB Risk Solution, McDonald's, Marpac, Micronesian Brokers Inc., Coca Cola, Docomo Pacific, Island Apparel, Gold's Gym, Sound Hires, Yaong Corp., Ideal Sign, Saipan Computer Services, Matson, and Triple J.

Each of the nine sports federations received $1,000 from Tan Holdings.

NMSA president Jerry Tan thanked all the nine teams that played in the Mini Games. “We wanted to recognize your preparation also. Winning medals is one thing, but to prepare for participating in games around our region—it's not easy.

He added, “It's a collective effort by [all] of you. We did a great job—we were the best host. Team NMI performed exceptionally well.”

He also acknowledged that in 2022, not only did the NMI host its first ever Mini Games and did an exceptional job, the NMI athletes also traveled to compete in other countries for their respective sports.

The event was sponsored by the TSL Foundation led by executive director Merlie Tolentino.

Results of the other NMSA Sports Banquet awards will come out in the next issues of Saipan Tribune.

MV Gloria II reels in 29.2-lb wahoo to win Tasi To Table derby

Captain John T. Sablan and the MV Gloria II reclaimed their lofty place in local fishing lore after topping Tasi To Table's 4th Annual Wahoo in the Marianas Fishing Tournament last Saturday.

During a brief awards ceremony at the Smiling Cove Marina's weigh station, Sablan said even though they won with a 29.2-lb catch, the wahoo they caught before noon in the waters off the Kingfisher Golf Links is actually a minnow compared to ones they usually catch.

He said MV Gloria II actually is the record-holder of the heaviest wahoo ever when they reeled in a whopping 54-lb wahoo in 2008 during the Saipan International Fishing Tournament.

Sablan dedicated the 2023 Tasi To Table tourney win to his family and his crew members composed of his sons, grandson, and deckhands John Sablan Jr., Manny Sablan, Jose Tenorio Quan, Eric Kani, and John Damian B. Sablan.

"It's a good day! It's one of those days that when your luck is there even when you're not concentrating, you just catch," he said about the winning wahoo who only put on a 15-minute fight before being landed.

As for the lure, the 64-year-old owner of JG Sablan Ice & Water said they used a tried-and-tested blue and pink lure that has been a favorite of wahoo.

Sablan, who started fishing when he was just 12 years old, also credited location as one his trade secrets for always getting the weightiest wahoo.

"Secret is just the location. You should know where to look for them...and where they always hang around," said Sablan, who pocketed $2,000 for topping the one-day event.

Defending champion Salty Bandits didn't get away like—well bandits this time—after coming in second with a 28.5-lb wahoo. Skipper See MV GLORIA on Page 19

That's a wrap for girls middle school soccer as the Saipan International School Geckos finally claimed the championship in the 2022-2023 NMIFA-PSS Interscholastic Soccer League after two years of settling for second in an intense finals showdown against the Hopwood Middle School Hilitais at the NMI Soccer Training Center in Koblerville last Thursday.

From the opening whistle, it was clear both teams were evenly matched as both lizards came out of the regular season with no losses—but with the speedy footwork of two Gecko sisters and exceptional defense of their goalie—they managed to clinch the championship
